Document owner: All-Encompassing Global Consult Limited (AEGC)
Effective date: Date of publication on the Platform
Version: 1.0 | Prepared: 18 November 2026
IMPORTANT This policy applies only to the Platform named above.

1. Controller and scope

All-Encompassing Global Consult Limited (AEGC) is the organisation responsible for the personal information it determines how and why to process through this Platform, unless a separate notice or contractual arrangement identifies another controller. The Privacy Policy applies to visitors, applicants, registered users and relevant contacts who interact with the Platform.

A partner, institution, verification source, payment processor or linked service may act as an independent controller for its own activity. Such parties should publish their own privacy information.

2. Legal bases and principles

We process personal data only where there is an applicable lawful basis, which may include consent; performance of a contract or steps requested before entering one; compliance with a legal obligation; protection of vital interests; a public-interest ground where lawfully applicable; or legitimate interests balanced against your rights, as provided by the Nigeria Data Protection Act 2023.

We apply purpose limitation, data minimisation, accuracy, security, storage limitation, transparency and accountability. Consent is requested separately when required and can be withdrawn without affecting earlier lawful processing.

3. Information we collect

Identity and contact data: name, business email address, telephone number, employer, organisation, job title and information entered in a website contact, partnership or meeting request.

Newsletter preferences: subscription category, consent or lawful marketing preference record, opt-out status and communication activity where supported by the email service.

Technical usage data: device/browser characteristics, IP address, basic security logs, diagnostic data and cookie choices where collected. Do not send sensitive personal information through general contact channels unless specifically requested through a secure process.

4. Purposes and typical lawful bases

Enquiry and partnership management: respond to requests, arrange calls, consider prospective engagements and maintain business correspondence (pre-contractual steps or legitimate interests, as appropriate).

Newsletter delivery and event or thought-leadership communications: administer subscriptions and communication preferences (consent or another valid basis, depending on message and jurisdiction).

Website operation: prevent abuse, maintain cybersecurity, measure performance and improve accessibility (legitimate interests, legal obligations or consent for non-essential technologies where needed).

Legal and corporate records: meet regulatory requirements, establish or defend claims and maintain defensible audit trails (legal obligation or legitimate interests).

5. External scheduling, newsletters and links

When you book using an external scheduling provider, click a social media link, download third-party materials or follow a link to TIH or the MSME Accelerator, that destination may separately collect and process personal data. Review the destination's privacy notice.

AEGC should not disclose your contact details to an unrelated marketing partner merely because you completed a corporate enquiry form.

6. Sources and collection methods

Information may be supplied directly through forms, enquiries, registrations, uploads, assessments, support requests or transactions; generated through the use of the Platform; received from a partner or sponsor with an appropriate basis; or obtained from authorised public registries and verification providers where lawful.

We do not treat information as freely reusable merely because it is publicly accessible. We seek to inform you when personal data is obtained indirectly, subject to lawful exceptions.

7. Cookies, analytics and communications

Essential cookies or equivalent technologies may support login, security, session integrity, accessibility and core functionality. Optional analytics, advertising or non-essential tracking technologies should be used only with the notice and consent or other lawful basis required by applicable law.

You may manage browser cookies and, where deployed, the Platform's cookie preferences. Disabling essential technologies may affect functionality. Marketing preferences and unsubscribe controls are separate from transactional and security notifications.

8. Recipients and disclosures

Where reasonably necessary and legally justified, personal data may be disclosed to carefully selected hosting and cloud providers, email and communications services, technical support, analytics providers, professional advisers, payment processors, programme delivery partners, authorised verification sources, institutional sponsors or competent regulators.

Processors should be subject to appropriate written contractual controls, confidentiality and security requirements. We do not sell personal information in a manner inconsistent with applicable law. Information is not made available to an unrestricted category of third parties merely by participating on the Platform.

9. Cross-border transfers

Some providers, partners or learners may be outside Nigeria. Where personal data is transferred internationally, we will assess the lawful transfer mechanism and apply appropriate safeguards required by the Nigeria Data Protection Act and applicable directives, including adequacy or other recognised mechanisms where relevant.

We will disclose material categories of international recipients or destinations when practicable and provide further information on request, subject to legitimate security and confidentiality constraints.

10. Data security and incidents

We use proportionate administrative, technical and organisational security measures, which may include access controls, logging, encryption in transit and at rest where appropriate, backups, incident response and staff confidentiality obligations. No online system can be represented as entirely risk-free.

If a breach occurs, we will assess risk, contain the incident and notify affected individuals or the Nigeria Data Protection Commission when required by law. Please report suspected account compromise promptly.

11. Retention and deletion

Records are kept only as long as necessary for the purposes identified, including operational delivery, security, financial accounting, legal compliance, audit, dispute resolution and defensible recordkeeping. Different categories may require different retention periods and legal holds.

When information is no longer required, we will delete, anonymise or securely archive it as appropriate. Backups may be deleted on their normal rotation cycle, subject to safeguards and legal requirements. A category-specific retention schedule should be maintained internally and made available where required.

12. Your rights

Subject to applicable law and exceptions, you may request information about processing; access to and a copy of your data; correction; erasure; restriction; objection; data portability; withdrawal of consent; and safeguards or human review concerning qualifying automated decisions.

To exercise your rights, email info@all-encompassingglobalconsult.com with "Data Protection Request" in the subject line. We may take reasonable steps to verify identity before disclosing information. We will respond within applicable legal time limits and explain any lawful refusal or extension. You may also complain to the Nigeria Data Protection Commission (NDPC) at https://ndpc.gov.ng/ if concerns remain unresolved.

13. Children and vulnerable individuals

Where a service is not intended for children, we do not knowingly solicit children's personal data. Where younger learners or other vulnerable individuals may participate, we apply age-appropriate information, parental or guardian authorisation where required, and enhanced safeguards consistent with applicable law.

If you believe a child's information was submitted without appropriate authority, contact us so we can investigate and take legally appropriate action.

14. Updates and contact

Privacy questions, complaints and rights requests may be sent to info@all-encompassingglobalconsult.com or by post to Plot 1, Block 1B, A Avenue, Sparklight Estate, Lagos-Ibadan Expressway, Ogun State, Nigeria. AEGC will publish material updates with a revised effective date and provide further notice or obtain consent when legally required.

This Policy should be read with the Terms of Service for the same Platform. It does not override statutory rights or agreements required by law.

Document interpretation

This Policy gives general notice of the processing described. Where a specific feature requires additional details, consent, or a just-in-time notice, AEGC will provide them at the point of collection or use.
